Northfield Public Broadcasting launches free video streaming website

Northfield, MN (August 5, 2020) —

The City of Northfield is launching a free video streaming website for its public access television stations.

Northfield Public Broadcasting (NPB) manages community channels 180 and 187 through Charter Spectrum. The website allows anyone to stream the cable broadcast live online regardless of individual television subscription.

Programming includes local historical biographies, library programs, gardening shows, city council meetings, school board meetings, church services and a variety of informational videos. A complete catalogue of NPB's previous programming is available for viewing at any time.

Northfield Public Broadcasting (NPB) was formerly known as Northfield Community Television (NCTV) and NTV26. The new branding is part of an overhaul of Northfield's public access cable stations. While the channels were previously managed by an independent contractor, NPB functions as a new organization within the City communications department.

Northfield Public Broadcasting's streaming service is available at: npb.ci.northfield.mn.us
